Bob, Sue and their two children moved to Nassau Bay in 1977 upon Bob's retirement from the US Navy. Bob went to work in the Civil Engineering Department of Brown and Root where he rose to the position of Vice President. His areas of responsibility included the design and construction management of municipal roads, bridges, waste treatment facilities, sewage systems, storm drainage, reservoir management, marine facilities including marinas, and water treatment and distribution systems. He was also responsible for the business aspects of the department that had over $50 million in annual revenue and at times over 500 employees. While on the City Council Bob served on the Nassau Bay TIRZ, EDC, Street, and Infrastructure Committees and several ad hoc committees and before being on Council served on the Board of Adjustment.

Bob wants Nassau Bay to remain one of the premier residential areas of the Gulf Coast. In order to do that we must continually support the police, fire, and EMS departments, seek redevelopment of the commercial areas and upgrade our infrastructure. We need to run our city in a businesslike manner, manage our administrative costs, and find cost-effective ways to provide services thus allowing us to keep property taxes low. We need to look ahead in these financially uncertain times.
